For Christmas! And What She Said at the Pirst Pres, Church Last Night, MRS. GRUNDY. As Interpreted by Rev. Dr. George of the 4th St. Church.

The lecture of Rev. A. C. George, D. D., at the First Presbyterian Church, last night, for the benefit of the Children's Home, was heard by a very appreciative audience. Replete in logical thought, and brilliant in eloquent passages, it brought the andience into an earnest sympathy with the spirit of the theme. Dr. George's style of oratory is most impressive is the avoidance of anything but the simplest means of cultivated address. His thoroughness in thought is not obscured by the elaborate overwork of rhetoric, but is expressed in the clearness and richness of a conversational method, and the effectiveness of simple terms. The subject of the reverend gentleman's lecture, last night, was "What Will Mrs. Grundy Say?" We herewith present an abstract of the lecture, and we leave our readers to judge for themselves what the old dame may have said or may be apt to say about them:

The lecturer commenced by stating that the expression, in Morton's comedy, "Speed the Plow," "What will Mrs. Grundy say?" so struck the popular fancy, as a just caricature of a prevailing tolble, that it had the lorce of a preverb. Mrs. Grundy survives the play because the world is full of Dame Ashifields—of persons whose chief solicitude seems to be the approbation of those above them. The extent of Mrs. Grundy's dominion was pictured. She is aupreme in all the social domain. There are old women of both sexes, and Mrs. Grundy wins victories in caucus and convention. Men who have spoken words which can never die, and performed deeds grander than any words which were very spoken, are every moment of their lives in mortal terror of what Mrs. Grundy will say. A graphic portrait was drawn of the typical young man, and his deaire for social recognition, especially for the favor of Miss a rose bud, but she has a fortune in her own right.

The prevailing inquiry, "What will Mrs. Grundy say?" has burdened human of the courter of Mrs. Grundy say has burdened human method and man and method and method and method and method and method and method an The lecture of Rev. The prevailing inquiry, "What will Mrs. Grundy say?" has burdened human Mrs. Grundy say?' has burdened human progress in many ways. It has begotten in men a false shame of a lowly birth, and of the necessity of daily toll. A number of striking instances were given of men who proved themselves auperior to their external conditions. In this connection, the relation of industry to knowledge and virtue was discussed at considerable length. The fear of Mrs. Grundy's censures has obstructed the progress of the race, because of the derisive laughter with which the old fady has greeted all inventions and discoveries. A number of suggestive examples were mentioned.

Neither Mrs. Grundy nor any power site represents has any right to impose Special Bargains in Furs.
NOTIONS—A full line of Gloves, Ladies' and sent's Handk'fs, Ties, Callars and Cuffs, etc., all at I. BLUM & BRO'S

Neither Mrs. Grundy now any power she represents has any right to impose abackles on the free soul. God never intended any man to be a duplicate. There must be freedom of thought and expression. Greed of gain, ambition for power, desire for pleasure and social consideration destroy individuality and drag men down. There must be fidelity to the right, no matter what Mrs. Grundy says. There is no freedom without courage—courage to deny one's self to live without the world's approbation and to cling to truth and holices, even though they be mocked and holiness, even though they be mocked and crucified. We have no alternative between servitude or service. The former nobling. The latter elevating and en-nobling. The grandeur of service to man was portrayed, and David Livingstone given as an illustrious example.

Nowhere is Mrs. Grundy's sway as Nowhere is Mrs. Grundy's away as resistless as over young girls, and in matters of courtship and marriage. The lecturer insisted on a woman's right to say what is womanly, and to choose her own career. If a young woman is resolved to marry the man she loves, no matter what Mrs. Grundy will say, then let her be sure that he is a man—not a mere walking advertisement of a gentle-men's furnishing store. Dr. George then discussed the question, "Has not Mrs. Grundy a right to speak, and a just claim to be heard?" All persons are interested in what any given person may do, and those who have disregarded Mrs. Grundy a for counsels have done it at their peril. The collective wisdom of the ages is not to be disregarded. What conservative New Plumbing, Gas and Steam Fitting

Every political society has the moral power to provide for its own welfare. The best conceptions of all the sges are built into the fabric of our modern civilization. The great reformation which was a revival of the life of God in the soul, was also a revival of learning and philosophy, and secured freedom of inquiry in every realm of human research. Free institutions have their foundations in religious teachings, and a religion for man means to be disregarded. What conservative eachings, and a religion for man mean the abrogation of caste, the overthrow o despotism and ceaseless progress for the race. Dr. George described how hereditary privileges had been swept away, and the great fundamental rights established generations future generations.

History repeats itself. The Continental Congress issued paper money which greatly depreciated, but Alexander Hamilton, as Wetster said, touched the dead liton, as Welster said, touched the dead corpse of the public credit and it sprung upon its feet. How? By paying one hundred cents on a dollar, by choosing the highest and not the lowest standard of payment, and by the utmost scorn of whatever looked like repudiation. The loss of public credit is a national reasonable and with. It argues weakness, or loss of public credit is a national re-proach and ruin. It argues weakness, or wickedness, or both, and is a badge of dishoner and a prophecy of death.

Religion, said the lecturer, is the chief fact in human condition, and the essential element of civiliration. Franklin said, in 1778, "He who will introduce into public affairs the principles of Christianity will change the face of the world." This has been done to a very great extent, "Had the Americans been skeptice," anys Bancroff, "had they wanted faith, they could have founded nothing." The crowning demonstration in our day of the influence of Christianity is in the peaceful settlement of the difficulties which existed between Europe and America.

Y. M. C. A.—We are informed by a party, who was in Grafton on Sabbath last, that the exercises at the various churches, Sabbath schools and the meetings held in the Town Hall, under the fauspices of the newly organized Young Men's Christian Association, were exceedingly interesting, and that all the meetings were largely attended. Prominent association workers from Columbus, Cleveland, Ohio; Baltimore, Cumberland, Martinsburg, Keyser and other points were present, and many were the able addresses and earnest appeals made. The Railroad Quartette, of Columbus, Ohio, were present, composed of Mesers. W. H. Lott, J. D. Lott, F. D. Everett and t. W. W. McCallip, and favored the various audiences with some of their aweetest hymns. This Quartette is a portion of the glee club which went on from Columbus to Washington to sing at President Haye's inauguration. If the members of the Quartette are a sample of the club, it is a credit to any city. We hope the Young Men's Christian Association of Wheeling will hasten matters along, and at an early day afford our citizens such a treat as must have been afforded at Grafton last Sabbath.

He Had a Long Tramp.-A day o HE HAD A LONG TRAME.—A day or two ago a man named Charles Levison, sixty-six years old, arrived here from San Francisco, having walked the entire distance. Levison is a cabinet maker by trade, and a Hessian by birth. He says he wanted to take a tramp across the continent, to see the country, and while upon his voyage a-foot several times refused to be assisted upon his journey by either rail or common dirt road transportation. He left San Francisco on the 16th day of March last, and arrived at Cincinnati on the 18th day of October. From Cincinnati he came here. The entire distance from San Francisco to Omaha he followed the track of the Union Omaha he followed the track of the Union Pacific Railroad. Says he met Indians, but they didn't want his scalp—probably had no use for it. Lev. is a jolly sort of a tramp, and is full of talk, but it sounds something like Jules Verne's trip "Around the World in Eighty Days."

HELD TO ANSWER FELORY.-John HELD TO ANSWER FELONY.—John Carter and Charles Allen, who took forcible possession of the Belvidere Hotel bar on Saturday evening last, and helped themselves to liquors and cigars, were examined by Justice Wm. After hearing the evidence in the case the Justice held the delendants to answer a charge of Islony, at the next term of the Circuit Court, in the sum of $1,000 each. The principal members of the company are and have long been great favorites with the Wheeling public, and we must trust that they may be greeted with fine audiences during their stay with us. We clip the following highly complimentary notice from the Trenton (N. J.) True American:

The performance was, without exception, one of the best negro ministrel entertainments ever given in this city, and every performer was a host in himself, thoroughly perfect in his part, and to particularize one would be to do injustice to the others. The audience was kept in a continuous roar of laughter during the olio, while the singing during the first part was very fine. There is no doubt that wherever this troupe once appears they will be always welcome again. At least we know that should they visit Trenton again they will be welcome."
